

PROGRAMS FOR THE CONSTANTLY CURIOUS

THOUGHT EXCHANGE

Satisfy your curiosity with an eclectic collection of lectures and discussions across the city.

HISTORY MATTERS

Connect with Toronto historians at these lively lectures showcasing current research on Toronto's past and discover some of the surprising ways history matters to everyone in our city today.

Making the Scene in 1960s Yorkville

Historian-musician-journalist Stuart Henderson explores Toronto's 1960s counterculture.

Tues. Sept. 14, 2 pm

Yorkville Branch

22 Yorkville Ave. 416-393-7660

Isolating Undesirables: Prisons, Pollution and Homelessness in the Don River Valley, 1860-1932

With environmental historian Jennifer Bonnell.

Thurs. Oct. 14, 7 pm

Bendale Branch

1515 Danforth Rd. 416-396-8610

I'll Drink to That: Booze in Hogtown

With Craig Heron, labour historian and author of Booze: A Distilled History.

Tues. Sept. 28, 7 pm

Annette Street Branch

45 Annette St. 416-393-7692

Keeping the City Clean: Portuguese Women in Toronto's Cleaning Industry, 1970-1990

Susana Miranda discusses the working lives of Portuguese women in the cleaning industry.

Thurs. Oct. 21, 7 pm

Bloor/Gladstone Branch

1101 Bloor St. W. 416-393-7674

A Public Technology: The Building of Toronto's Yonge Street Subway

Historian Jay Young discusses the history of this massive public works project of the 1940s and 1950s.

Thurs. Oct. 14, 7 pm

Beaches Branch

2161 Queen St. E. 416-393-7703

Locating Parkdale's Mad History: Back Wards to Back Streets, 1980-2010

Megan Davies and David Reville explore the impact of deinstitutionalization in Parkdale.

Thurs. Nov. 4, 7 pm

Parkdale Branch

1303 Queen St. W. 416-393-7686

torontopubliclibrary.ca